Welshmen Fought Like Demons in the Big Offensive

Almost every county in England, Scotland and Wales now has its individual story of "how our boys fought

"The way our boys did their work will never be forgotten in the history of the Welsh people," wrote a Welsh soldier in his diary. "God bless them."

These stories are local history and they are squelching more labor unrest at home than two years' talk by any of the Welsh miners who could ever do. The recalcitrant Welsh miners who decided to take a vacation in spite of Lloyd George's request that they stay at home played a major role in the decision when the stories of the big push began to come home. The troublesome labor elements on the Tyneside, in England, who prom-

The Clyde workers in Scotland, upon whom the navy depends for much of its strength, have redoubled their efforts and decided to work, holidayless, to beat the Germans.

The war, by virtue of the Picardy offensive, is creeping into almost every British home. There are empty chairs and pensions in many of them. There are German hel-

The Mystery of the "Tank" A Strictly Legitimate Device Used for War Purposes Only

The imagination is piqued by the exploits of the "tanks," the new military machine of the British, the secrets of whose construction are still well kept, says the Minneapolis Journal. The accounts of awfully lumbering monsters crawling busily but irresistibly over trenches and barbed wire entanglements and machine gun defences, pushing over walls and trees, all the time impervious to the rattle of bullets and the bursting of shrapnel.

The "tank" is, no doubt, a caterpillar tractor of great size and power. It must be much larger than the peaceful American machines, or it could not cross trenches. Already could not cross trenches. Already American claims to the credit for the invention of the "tank" are heard on all sides. Some of them may be well founded. At any rate, the British have turned out an engine of war.

And, unlike some of the other new engines of warfare, it is a strictly legitimate device because it is used for military purposes only. That is more than can be said for Zeppelins which drop bombs on innocent non-combatants or for submarines which sink merchant vessels without warning. The "tank" fights against soldiers only.

As One Man

We should like to print this story in letters of gold. It is of a colonel on the British front who wanted twenty men to face almost certain death. He called the whole company together, and made the situation clear to them. Then he asked for twenty volunteers to advance on the enemy's position. He gave them space. He loved his men, and it was almost more than he could bear. He closed his eyes to keep back his tears, and when he opened them men stood in exactly the same formation. He was pained. "Is there no one volunteer?" he asked, and a little sergeant stepped forward to salute. "Everyone has advanced on my pace, sir," he said.

A Valuable Report

The focusing of public attention in Canada upon the problem of strengthening our national organization through increased industrial and commercial efficiency leads special value and interest to the Seventh Annual Report of the Commission of Conservation, which has just been issued. The activities of this Commission, relating to the entire field of primary production, also to accurate efficiency in basic industry—in the development and utilization of Canada's natural resources.

The resume of the past year's work is notable primarily for the progress recorded in the constructive program entered upon by the newly formed Town Planning branch, with respect to one of our greatest and most urgent national problems, viz, the proper use and development of land, particularly in urban areas.
Town planning legislation of an advanced character has been secured in several provinces and through investigation of housing conditions has also been undertaken with a view to the development of model housing laws. Rapid progress has been achieved in the promotion of independent civic organization throughout the Dominion for the purpose of securing more general and thorough study of public questions.

A second noteworthy feature is the attention directed by the Commission to the reduction of the heavy economic handicap imposed upon Canada through her outmoded annual fire losses. The Commission is engaged in a careful study of the causes, the extent and best means of remedying the available tax upon the country's resources.

The section of the report containing the results of an agricultural survey of four representative counties presents accurate and definite data regarding the deficiencies of Canada's chief industry and affords a valuable indication of the lines along which efforts to improve rural conditions, economic and social, should be directed.

Steady progress has been made by the Commission in the huge task of natural stock-taking, the urgent necessity for which became daily more apparent. Increased experience has served to emphasize the need for accurate knowledge of the nature and extent of the Dominion's wealth in lands, forests, minerals, water, powers, fisheries and wild life, as a guide not only to intelligent and permanent national expansion.

The report, which is bound in cloth and well illustrated, constitutes an important addition to the knowledge of Canada's resources and the problems connected with their efficient administration and development.

The annual report of the collections made during the past year by the Bellevue Patriotic Fund will show that the amount subscribed for all patriotic purposes by the people of Bellevue will exceed $10 per capita, probably the record for this province.

If there is one enterprise on earth that is quitter should leave severely alone it is advertising. One must be prepared to stick like a limoncello on a bear's bottom. He should know before he begins that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising does not jerk it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It is in creases day by day and year by year until it exerts irresistible power.—John Wanamaker.

Alberta Man First
To Reach Correllette

The first man to reach the village of Correllette was Pte. James W.
Monaster, son of the Rev. W. H. Monaster, former brigade chaplain of the Sarnia group, who went out from the city as chaplain of the 29th battalion, and who is well known throughout southern Alberta, where he held several churches.

Capt. Monaster has two sons at the front, and both have been giving splendid service to the empire. Pte. James W. went out with the original 1st battalion, a year ago last May, and for being the first man into Correllette he was recommended for the Distinguished Conduct Medal. For this feat, too, he was given seven days' leave, of which he took advantage by going to London, where he was married. His soldier father performing the ceremony. Consequently for being the first man into that war-torn town, Pte. Monaster has gained a wife and the D.C.M.

Lieut. Arthur D. Monaster, the second son, was attached to the military transport, and while doing his "duty" in France he was wounded. After convalescing in England he transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, and is now with this unit at the present time.

win.

If the lists indicate a sufficient interest of the lovers of the sport, the management undertakes

To purchase the instrument above mentioned and to have music during both daily sessions.

To furnish free heaters to hockey players and to do everything possible to help along the formation of a team.

To have good illumination at all times.

To have a carnival at least once a month and hockey games as often as possible.

There will also be erected a new and exclusive dressing room for the ladies and a refreshment room.

Negotiations are under way to have stage service from Frank to Blairmore.

So if all will pull together, one of the best and jolliest winter seasons is ahead of us.

Four years ago Henry Gilman opened for business the first wholesale liquor house in Frank.

Everybody Crows

Here is wisdom "crump" in words" if you will—but wisdom still:

A Hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact, yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A Rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to boast of, but none the less most roosters have enough good sense to crow.

The Mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way of letting people know he's around by his insistent bray.

The Little Bury Hen, they teach, bawls herself and crows too, and waddles back, and ganders cackles, and down and piques on.

The Peacock spreads his tail and squawks like a hen and rooster sing, and even serpens crow enough to hiss before they sting.

But Man, the greatest master, let that Nature could devise, will often stop and hesitate before he'll Advertise!

Running a business without advertising is like walking at your girl in the dark. You know what you are doing (probably), but no one else does.

In seeking for a representative from Blainmore council to attend the annual meeting of the Union of Alberta Municipalities, in Edmonton, on November 8th and 9th, mention is made of the fact that municipalities are passing through an ordeal, the severity of which is not likely to be repeated in future years, and never was co-operation and co-ordination needed so much as at present. Our financial problems continue to press us, and we need all the municipal help we have in the province to help us solve them. The convention on the 8th and 9th of November is the only opportunity in the province of meeting men who are laboring under the same difficulties that beset us. By all means let us get together and by an exchange of ideas make it a memorable convention.

Lethbridge is to lose the detention camp, the inmates to be shipped either to B.C. or Spirit Lake, Quebec, where escape is almost impossible and few prisoners will risk it. The camp at Banff and several other camps throughout the country are being broken up, it being the intention of the government to concentrate the inmates in as few camps as possible during the winter.

That farmer in Clinton, Ontario who figured recently in a liquor case, had no sense of proportion. Here in Alberta we have heard of men getting into trouble for having a case of whiskey in their place of abode, or in the express office, or for having a couple of bottles of beer in their automobile, but the limit is reached when a man is found with twelve barrels of whiskey on his farm. And the beauty of the story is that this farmer proved to be the satisfaction of the court that the whiskey was there for his own special use and that of his wife, and not for sale. His contention was that prohibition was there to stay and he had only thought of his allotted span of life. In fact he had grave doubts as to whether he had enough or not. The case against him was dismissed.

W. R. Shanks shot a lynx on "Tillson's" farm just south of the town, last Monday. It bore marks of being well up in years, and was rosin and dried up that it will need but little further stuffing. The game eyes that it was found to have would indicate that medical science had advanced considerably amongst the wild animals of the prairie.

The returned veterans at the Sanatorium highly appreciate the kindness of Frank artists in taking them out for a "spin" on Wednesday afternoon. Every car in Frank was placed at their disposal, and the boys thoroughly enjoyed the outing. We understand that the Blainmore cars will be out the first opportunity (15 of them at least), and that the car owners of Bellevue, Hillcrest, and Coleman will be glad to offer their services at any time, so that the boys will at any rate be assured of outings which will be beneficial to them.

"We now have the Germans by the ears and will continue to shake their heads until their brains are spilled and they will be compelled to give in." This declaration was made by Gen. Edouard Castelnau, chief of staff of all the French armies in the field, to the American and British war correspondents. "The great question of the issue," continued Gen. Castelnau, "was whether we should be slaves of the Germans. We shall not be. We will die on the battle field, but we shall never be their slaves."
